

Andrew Chang

Emeritus Professor

About Thunderbird:

Thunderbird is the world's No. 1-ranked school of international business with more than 65 years of experience in developing leaders with the global mindset, business skills and social responsibility necessary to create real, sustainable value for their organizations, communities and the world. Dedicated to preparing students to be global leaders and committed global citizens, Thunderbird was the first graduate business school to adopt an official Professional Oath of Honor. Thunderbird's global network of alumni numbers 40,000 graduates in 147 nations worldwide. The school is sought out by graduate students, working professionals and companies seeking to gain the skills necessary for success in today's global economy.

www.thunderbird.edu

Areas of Expertise:

Languages and Culture, Cross-Cultural Communication, Japanese and Chinese.

Andrew Chang earned a bachelor's degree from National Taiwan University and a master's degree from Seton Hall University before completing four years of graduate studies at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. Prior to his arrival at Thunderbird School of Global Management in 1971, Professor Chang worked as an interpreter at the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group in Taipei, Taiwan. He also spent time as a tourism specialist at the Ministry of Transportation in Taipei, and as a lecturer and faculty member at Washington University. He taught courses in Chinese, Japanese and cross-cultural communication at Thunderbird until 2002, when he received emeritus status following a 45-year career.

In addition to publishing papers in journals such as the Modern Language Journal and Business Journal in Kyoto, Japan, Professor Chang has published dictionaries of English-Japanese and English-Chinese business terms. He is a member of the North American Taiwanese Professors Association.

Educating global leaders who create sustainable prosperity worldwide