

Jarl Kallberg, Ph.D.

Professor of Global Finance (on leave of absence)

About Thunderbird:

Thunderbird is the world's No. 1-ranked school of international business with more than 65 years of experience in developing leaders with the global mindset, business skills and social responsibility necessary to create real, sustainable value for their organizations, communities and the world. Dedicated to preparing students to be global leaders and committed global citizens, Thunderbird was the first graduate business school to adopt an official Professional Oath of Honor. Thunderbird's global network of alumni numbers 40,000 graduates in 147 nations worldwide. The school is sought out by graduate students, working professionals and companies seeking to gain the skills necessary for success in today's global economy.

www.thunderbird.edu

Areas of Expertise:

Real estate, Financial engineering, Entertainment economics, Integrative corporate strategy, Credit and statistical modeling

Courses:

Financial Engineering & Derivative Products, Financial Management, Global Financial Management

Jarl "Jerry" Kallberg, Ph.D., is a professor of global finance at the Thunderbird School of Global Management and an internationally recognized expert in the areas of corporate finance, real estate, corporate strategy and the business of music and film. He is highly sought after by national and international media for his finance and real estate expertise, and his knowledge of international banking and credit has been tapped by the United States Congress as well as the World Bank.

He was also an assistant vice president at world commercial and credit information giant Dun and Bradstreet where he consulted with and directed a group of international economists who built credit, bankruptcy and other economic models for the company and its clients.

Among Dr. Kallberg's research interests are financial engineering, real estate, financial contagion and influences, volatility and credit default swaps, preferred stock issuance, entertainment economics and credit and statistical modeling.

A prolific author of books relating to corporate finance, he has written or edited six books in the subject area. Included in his portfolio of works are "Corporate Liquidity: A Guide to Managing Working Capital," "Corporate Liquidity: Management and Measurement," "Current Asset Management: Cash, Credit and Inventory."

Dr. Kallberg, who has served as a visiting professor at Bilkent University (Ankara, Turkey), the University of British Columbia, and Princeton University's Woodrow

Educating global leaders who create sustainable prosperity worldwide

Wilson School, was the editor of the prestigious Journal of Cash Management and is currently an associate editor of Journal of Real Estate Economics. He is on the editorial board of the Journal of Corporate Treasury Management, and his writings have been published in the leading economic journals of today, including Journal of Business, Journal of Empirical Finance, Journal of Financial Markets, Journal of Law and Economics, Journal of Real Estate Economics, Journal of Real Estate Finance and Economics, Management Science, and Operations Research.

Prior to joining Thunderbird in 2007, he was a faculty member in the finance department at New York University's Stern School of Business for nearly 30 years. He was also a member of the faculty of New York University's Law School and for several years he was the director of the finance Ph.D. program. In 2005, he was selected as the Stern School's Professor of the Year.

Dr. Kallberg earned his Ph.D. in business administration at the University of British Columbia. He also holds MS and BS degrees in mathematics from the university.

www.thunderbird.edu

Educating global leaders who create sustainable prosperity worldwide