

Janet Samuels, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor of Accounting

About Thunderbird:

Thunderbird is the world's No. 1-ranked school of international business with more than 65 years of experience in developing leaders with the global mindset, business skills and social responsibility necessary to create real, sustainable value for their organizations, communities and the world. Dedicated to preparing students to be global leaders and committed global citizens, Thunderbird was the first graduate business school to adopt an official Professional Oath of Honor. Thunderbird's global network of alumni numbers 40,000 graduates in 147 nations worldwide. The school is sought out by graduate students, working professionals and companies seeking to gain the skills necessary for success in today's global economy.

www.thunderbird.edu

Areas of Expertise:

Managerial Accounting, Balanced Scorecard, Whistle-blowing

Courses:

Accounting From a Global Perspective, Financial Accounting & External Reporting, Managerial Decision Making/Accounting

Janet Samuels is an Assistant Professor at Thunderbird School of Global Management. She has taught accounting courses in Asia and Glendale. 

One stream of Janet's research focuses on business ethics. She has recently co-authored several articles examining factors that influence whistle-blowing. In one study, she and her co-authors examine how a "best of class" outside whistle-blowing hotline can reduce the propensity to whistle-blow compared to a hotline viewed as staffed by company employees. Another study analyzes the effects of Sarbanes Oxley subcertification on propensity to whistle-blow. Dr. Samuels has also examined attitudes and norms towards insider trading. Her ethics work has been published in Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Accounting and Public Policy, Auditing: A Journal of Theory and Practice, and Behavioral Research in Accounting. 

Another area of Dr. Samuels' research is on incentives, goals, and performance measures. She has several research studies examining the behavioral limitations of evaluating performance using the Balanced Scorecard. She has also studied how goals and incentives can influence behavior and performance. For example, a recent study examines how adjusting task requirements after the start of the task can influence the effectiveness of specific versus general goals. Her work in these areas has been published in Journal of Behavioral Decision Making, Behavioral Research in Accounting, and Advances in Accounting. A co-authored paper on goals and target costing, published in Strategic Finance, was awarded a Certificate of Merit from the Institute of Management Accounting

Educating global leaders who create sustainable prosperity worldwide



Dr. Samuels received her Bachelor in Business Administration with a major in accounting from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. She worked with Arthur Andersen in Milwaukee for eight years, and had her own accounting and consulting practice for three years. She worked on audits, tax returns, and consulting engagements. Her clients were primarily privately held companies.



Dr. Samuels was on the faculty at Arizona State University from 2003 through 2011, where she taught courses in financial and managerial accounting and in accounting information systems. She earned her Ph.D. in accounting at Arizona State University.